

Strange Planets

For this homework you're going to write about life on another planet. It's not going to be your ordinary planet, though, it's going to be a strange planet.

The planets you can choose from are:

- The planet where time goes backwards;
- The planet where everything goes wrong;
- The planet where everything is black or white;
- The planet where it always rains;
- The planet without a day or night;
- The planet where people are tiny.

You have to write about a day on the planet you choose. Start it at breakfast time and finish when you get to bed.

What's different about your planet? What things would you find difficult on your planet? What would be easier? How would your day be different?
